Q. Should India adopt Presidential form of government?

Ans → The makers of the constitution considered Parliamentary form over presidential form because they considered it as best possible option for a diverse nation like India. Moreover, it is shouldn't be adopted by India due to the following reasons -

- i) It may lead to dictatorship.
- ii) It is subjected to more corruption.
- iii) less checks and balances
- iv) less smoothness in legislation
- v) Executive is not answerable to this system.
- vi) May lead to concentration of Power.

India is a country of diverse nature in all dimensions. The imposition of Presidential system will be creating conflicts due to the above reasons. Hence, Parliamentary system is a better option for governance in country like India in order to preserve its diversity.
