Q. 1

"F.D are the reminder to the citizens that without duties there can be no rights." Comment (150w)

A. 1

Fundamental Duties are embedded in Part IV-A of the Indian Constitution under Article 51 A. Originally the duties were ten in number, later on by 86th Amendment in 2002, they levelled up to eleven.

* IMPORTANCE OF DUTIES -

↳ Democracy cannot establish deep roots in society until the citizens don't complement fundamental rights with their fundamental duties.

↳ Today, it is important to emphasise the need to remember fundamental duties for the progress of India.

↳ Incorporating the essential aspects of fundamental duties in all oaths and pledges as citizens have a high sense of duty.

↳ F.D. serves as a reminder to perform specific duties towards society and warning to citizens against anti-social activities.

↳ Rights and duties have to exist together as Fundamental duties are complementary to Fundamental Rights.

Therefore, Fundamental Duties serve as a constant reminder of national goals as well as inculcate a sense of social responsibility.

Thus, F.D. are the reminder to the citizens that without duties there can be No Rights.
